

Shape Name

Utilitarian

Potter Name

Unspecified

Photo Type

Item - Photo

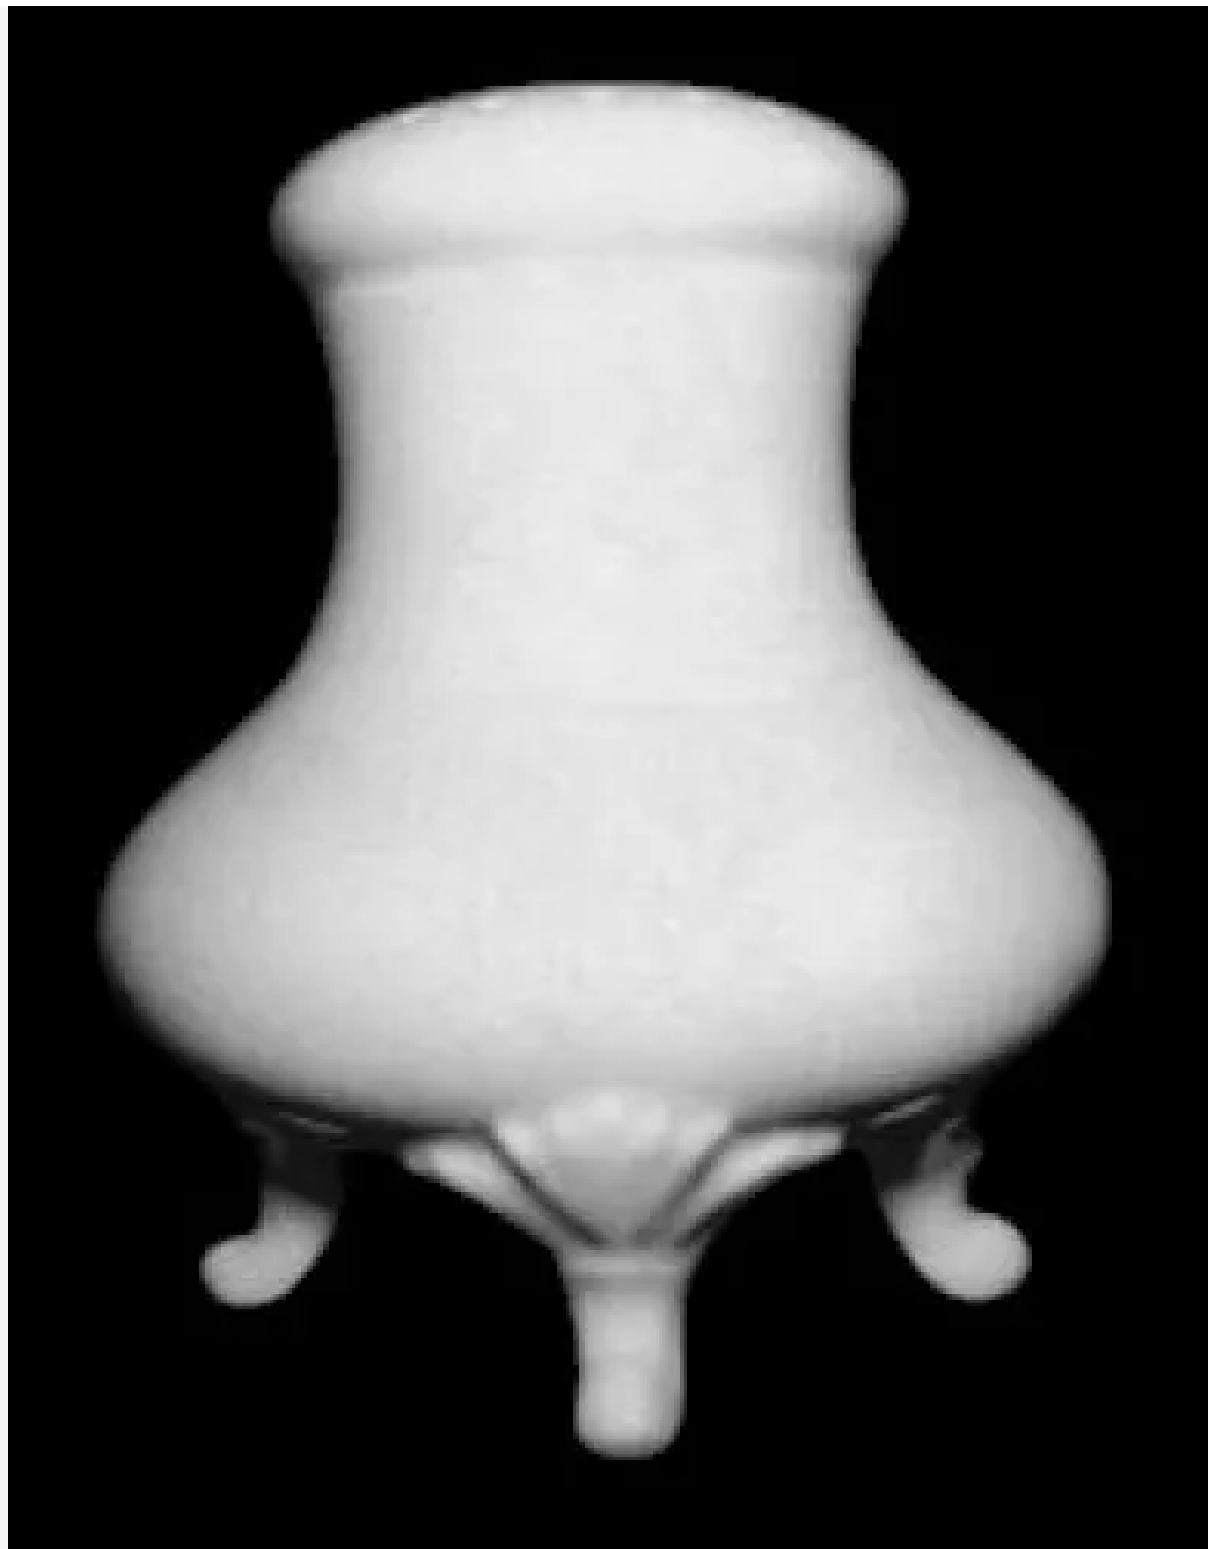

Item

Muffineer

Notes

A muffineer is essentially a salt shaker; it's a small container with a perforated top which is used to shake out powders like sugar, salt, and talc in a controlled way. You may also hear a muffineer referred to as a caster or castor, depending on regional dialect, and of course it is perfectly acceptable to call a muffineer a shaker, since that's what it is.

During the Victorian era shakers were used to sprinkle sugar or cinnamon and sugar on bread or muffins. This muffineer is 4 3/4" high.

Enlarge Image